Ledbury Poetry Festival

30 June – 9 July 2017

Happy 21st Ledbury! The celebrations spill onto the streets, into unexpected locations and places.

To surprise all sorts of people who might not expect to, but find they do in fact enjoy poetry. This is a Festival in many languages, welcoming poets from all over the world.

It celebrates translation, collaboration, exchange and sharing – of words, experiences, places, feelings, convictions, stories, histories, pleasures. Festivals are a joyful gathering and I would like to thank everyone who makes this joyous Festival possible!

Chloe Garner, Artistic Director

Community Programme

From helping with chronic pain management, to working with homeless young people in poetry and film, the Festival's community programme reaches out to people facing social exclusion due to physical or mental health issues, disabilities, age or learning challenges. Our highly skilled poets and practitioners engage these groups in life-affirming ways with poetry and the creative process. There are many ways these groups can be involved in the Festival: see the Segments event on Monday 3rd July, and Epic Youth on Saturday 8th July, and the huge Outdoor Magic Project (below). The impact this work can have is astounding, reducing loneliness and isolation, and encouraging self expression and artistic engagement.

New and Emerging Writers Programme

The Festival supports poets at all stages of their careers. New and emerging writers have access to a raft of integrated and sector-leading initiatives including residential voice-coaching, festival workshops, open mics, and the poetry competition. Ian McMillan, who has judged the competition says, 'it forces people to write new poems, and to send them out into the world. It reminds us, in these tumultuous times, of the importance of heightened language in helping us to think, and it places brand-new writing at the heart of a literary festival.' New writers and new writing are the lifeblood of the Festival and we are proud to support them in such a vigorous and leading-edge manner.

Outdoor Magic

Look around! Wrapping the town in a big colourful poetic splash is artwork created by community groups in Ledbury and the local environs, celebrating the magic of the outdoors. Take a seat in one of the Festival's Outdoor Poetry Chairs, made by Salters Hill Charity and Hereford Community Farm, inspired by poetry and the local C19th arts and crafts chairmaker Phillip Clissett. Look in the fantastic shop windows, see the local traders' ingenious displays inspired by outdoor poems. The best windows in three categories are being judged by celebrity Hugh Dennis. This large-scale community project is a way of including everyone in the Festival: 'poetry is embraced here, poetry matters, people care, the town is engaged with this joyous celebration of words, poems and poets' says Artistic Director Chloe Garner.

Groups taking part at time of printing include: The Forbury, Hereford Community Farm, Leadon Bank, Market Lodge, Ledbury Evergreens Club, Art for Pleasure, Ledbury Nursing Home, Ledbury Refugee and Asylum Seekers Support, Salters Hill and Stanley House.

Poets in Schools

The Festival continues to offer a menu of options for schools across Herefordshire and Worcestershire. These include Poetry Out Loud! Festival in a Day! involving performances and workshops with Anneliese Emmans Dean, Rob Gee and Sarah Hirsch and Dreamcatcher, a poetry and song project in partnership with the Three Choirs Festival. The Festival has placed poets in residence in schools: Brenda Read-Brown in John Masefield High School, Adam Kammerling and Raymond Antrobus in Aconbury Pupil Referral Unit and James Carter in Bosbury. Schools continue to make digital poetry trails, accessed via QR codes, with poet Sara-Jane Arbury and Herefordshire Computing Support. The Festival offers Twilight Inset sessions for teachers, Keen Writer sessions and is always ready to place poets in schools on request.

Ledbury Forte Poetry Prize for Second Collections

2017 sees the inauguration of the Ledbury Forte Poetry Prize for Second Collections, which will support and encourage poets at the mid-career stage with a shortlist and a prize of £5,000 for the winning second collection. The Judges are Vahni Capildeo and Tara Bergin. Vahni Capildeo won the 2016 Forward Prize for Best Collection for Measures of Expatriation and Tara Bergin's first collection, This is Yarrow, won the Seamus Heaney Centre for Poetry Prize. Ledbury Poetry Festival gratefully acknowledges the generosity of Olga Polizzi whose contribution makes the Ledbury Forte Poetry Prize possible.

FAIR FIELD

A performance in five parts

Free opening event on Friday 30 June on the Malvern Hills and four ticketed events on Saturday 1 July in various locations in Ledbury. Buy tickets for all four events for £20 or individual tickets for £6.

Written almost 650 years ago by local poet William Langland, Piers Plowman enters the mind of a wanderer, Will, as he falls asleep in the Malvern Hills, dreams of a “fair field full of folk” and embarks on a quest to find Truth.

Fair Field re-imagines Piers Plowman for the twenty-first century through a series of site-responsive performances taking place across the opening weekend of Ledbury Poetry Festival. Enter the psychedelic dreamscape of Piers Plowman and explore a world of inequality, political corruption and spiritual crisis that is uncannily like our own.

New commissions from artists including Breach Theatre, Annette Brook, Tom Chivers, Steve Ely, Nick Field, Francesca Millican-Slater, The Society of Strange and Ancient Instruments and Ross Sutherland. Co-directed by Russell Bender and Tom Chivers.

Conceived and produced by Penned in the Margins. Commissioned by Ledbury Poetry Festival and Shoreditch Town Hall. Supported by Arts Council England, Jerwood Charitable Foundation and King's College London.

FRIDAY 30 JUNE

1. 21 Years of Ledbury Poetry Festival! Showcase and Celebration!

5pm–6.30pm | Burgrave Hall

Free but ticketed

This event showcases poets at all stages of their development: John Masefield High School

Students have worked with the school's poet in residence Brenda Read-Brown to create their poems. The Foyle Young Poets Award for poets aged 11–17 is one of the largest and most prestigious literary prizes and past winners include Theophilus Kwek, Richard Osmond and Mary Anne Clark who will read tonight.

Established poets include Fiona Sampson, recently made an MBE for services to literature and current Herefordshire poet in residence whose latest collection is The Catch; Alison Brackenbury whose ninth collection of poetry is called Skies and Katharine Towers whose second collection is The Remedies. American poet Thomas Lynch will feature among other renowned poets.

2. The Physic Garden

Anthology Launch

7.15pm–8.15pm | Feathers Hotel

Free but ticketed (bar available)

Healing poems inspired by healing plants in the Physic Garden at Hellens Manor. In 2016 a poem by Adam Horovitz, who was Herefordshire poet in residence at the time, inspired a botanica of digital contributions from poets all over the world and at all stages of their poetic development. This rich and varied collection led to this anthology, published by Palewell Press. Join us for the launch and raise a glass to the healing powers of mother nature!

Alison Brackenbury: 21 Years of Ledbury Poetry Festival!

Richard Osmond: 21 Years of Ledbury Poetry Festival!

John Masefield High School pupils will perform their poems at the Showcase, Event 1.

Sean Hughes Poetry and Stand-up

3. Fair Field: Will's Vision

8pm-10pm | Malvern Hills,
secret location | Free but ticketed
(Location revealed on booking)

*Ac on a May mornynge on Malverne hulles
Me biful for to slepe, for werynesse of-walked.*

Follow in the footsteps of medieval poet William Langland in Fair Field's unmissable opening. Staged in the Malvern Hills at dusk, this outdoor performance follows the dreamer, Will, as he walks into the Hills and begins an extraordinary journey through an unreal landscape. Langland's 'fair field full of folk' comes to life as a bustling vision of England, where the modern mingles with the medieval. Immerse yourself in a riot of colour, sound and speech as Will discovers a society in spiritual free-fall and embarks on a quest to find Truth.

Bus available from The Market House at 7.20pm, £2 per person. Please wear suitable footwear and outerwear and take caution on steep and uneven surfaces.

4. Sean Hughes Poetry and Stand-up

9pm-10pm | Community Hall (bar available)
£9

Sean Hughes is best known for being a team captain on the BBC's hit quiz show Never Mind the Buzzcocks. He has toured up and down the country as well as abroad with his successful hilarious comedy stand up tours since then, along with a fortnightly podcast called Under The Radar where he has special guests from the world of comedy, sports and entertainment. His poetry collection is My Struggle to be Decent and he performs it with his unique brand of stand-up.

Emergency Poet: The World's first poetic first aid service

A mix of the serious, the therapeutic and the theatrical, The Emergency Poet offers consultations inside her ambulance and prescribes poems as cures. In the waiting room under an attached awning Nurse Verse dispenses poemcetamols and other poetic pills and treatments from the Cold Comfort Pharmacy.

SATURDAY 1 JULY

5. Workshop with Katharine Towers: I wandered lonely...

10am-12noon | Old Cottage Hospital | £20

Wordsworth created perhaps the most famous cloud in poetry – although, of course, his poem is not about clouds at all. In this workshop

Katharine Towers (Poet-in-Residence at the Cloud Appreciation Society) will take you up into the ether to help you capture that most elusive of creatures, the cloud poem. Explore the language of clouds and find out just how far a cumulonimbus or a cirrostratus can take you.

6. Bejan Matur and Jen Hadfield

11am-12noon | Burgage Hall | £9

Acclaimed Kurdish poet Bejan Matur presents a new chapbook of her poems, in English translation by T.S. Eliot Prize-winning poet Jen Hadfield. Join us for an electrifying hour of poetry in Kurdish, Turkish and English, by a pair of poets whose work explores the language of landscape and of home.

Presented in partnership with the Poetry Translation Centre

20 minutes with... Faber New Poet Elaine Beckett

12.15pm-12.35pm | Panelled Room

The Master's House | Free

Elaine Beckett's first pamphlet was published under the Faber New Poets scheme in 2016. Her poems have been longlisted for The Bridport Prize.
Supported by Herefordshire Libraries

7. A.E. Stallings and Matthew Francis: Rhyming the Classics and other poems

12.45pm–1.45pm | Burgage Hall | £9

An event celebrating poetry that uses rhyme and meter: A.E. Stallings is an American poet, a MacArthur Fellow, who studied Classics. She has published three collections of poetry, Archaic Smile, Hapax, and Olives, and a verse translation (in rhyming fourteeners!) of Lucretius, The Nature of Things. Her new translation of Hesiod's Works & Days is published by Penguin in November.

Matthew Francis's poetic retelling of the first four stories of the Welsh national epic The Mabinogi captures the magic and strangeness of this medieval Celtic world.

Sponsored by BRM

8. Fair Field: The Marriage of Lady Mede

2pm-3pm | St Michael & All Angels Church
£6 (£20 for all four Fair Field events)

You are invited to the wedding of the year! With the country beset by economic crisis, join socialite and millionaire heiress Lady Mede as she ties the knot with False. But behind the glamour lurks Conscience and a surprise revelation that threatens to spoil the party... In this modern adaptation of one of the key scenes in Piers Plowman, playwright Annette Brook explores the use and abuse of money – from cash for questions to pay-day loans – and asks: Can money ever be good?

SATURDAY 1 JULY & SUNDAY 2 JULY

HEDGESPOKEN

Rima Staines and Tom Hirons | Hellens Manor Garden

The Singing Bone

Paintings in a Minor Key

Rima Staines is an artist using paint, wood, word, music, animation, clock-making, puppetry and story to attempt to build a gate through the hedge that grows along the boundary between this world and that.

Workshops for children on storytelling, maskmaking and puppetry

The Fairytale Circus: Hedgespoken children's shadow puppetry workshop

11am–12noon | £3 per person

Make giants ride unicycles! Make clouds dance!

Make dragons sing! Make Baba Yaga fly!

Come and join artist and puppeteer Rima Staines and other Hedgespoken crew (big and small) for a shadow puppetry workshop in our audience marquee beside the truck-stage. Choose to make a paper character from our favourite folk tale and bring them to life on the shadow screen with music. Materials provided. Ages 5+.

Parents must stay with their children.

The Golden Antlered Reindeer: Hedgespoken children's storytelling workshop

2.30pm–3.30pm | £3 per person

Come and learn to tell The Golden Antlered Reindeer with Hedgespoken's Tom Hirons in our audience marquee. From learning the bare bones to fleshing it out and bringing it to life, Tom will use over twenty years' experience as a storyteller to guide you through this short, but magical Finnish tale. Never be storyless again! Ages 5+.

The Singing Bone

5pm–6.15pm | £9 (£4 child, £22 family)

'Magic of a real, old, golden kind.'

Beside a river grows a Juniper tree. By the tree, a shepherd unearths a bone and fashions a flute from it. The song of this bone flute forms the thread of this uncanny and beautiful story — the story of the youngest of three sisters, of her magical glass apple and silver plate and of what happened to her and the shepherd who plays her song on the singing bone flute. The Singing Bone is a tale about truth and lies, about empowerment and faith. Hedgespoken use storytelling, masquerade and puppetry, song and immersive theatre to present a tale that is told from Iceland to Russia, in Pakistan and by the brothers Grimm. Recommended for 8+.

Tony Hoagland

10. Thomas Lynch and Tony Hoagland

2.30pm–3.30pm | Burgage Hall | £9

Two American poets who share a wry, dark humour: Thomas Lynch, hailed by The New York Times as a cross between Garrison Keillor and William Butler Yeats, gives us glimpses of ordinary people and the ways they approach their own mortality. He lives in Milford, Michigan where he has been the funeral director since 1974, and in Moveen, Co. Clare, Ireland where he keeps an ancestral cottage. Tony Hoagland's poems poke and provoke at the same time as they entertain and delight. He is American poetry's hilarious 'high priest of irony', a wisecracker and a risk-taker whose disarming humour, self-scathing and tenderness are all fuelled by an aggressive moral intelligence. He pushes the poem not just to its limits but over the edge.

Sponsored by David and Ann Tombs

11. Fair Field: The Confession of the Seven Sins

4pm-5pm | Barrett Browning Institute
£6 (£20 for all four Fair Field events)

Got something to confess? Follow the dreamer, Will, into the crumbling labyrinth of the Barrett Browning Institute and discover an anarchic, medieval self-help group. The seven sins will all be there – from Gluttony, high on icing sugar, to Lechery, teller of the dirtiest tales. Map your own route through the Institute in this immersive, provocative and comic experience of the dark side of human nature.

This venue contains steps and narrow staircases. Flashing lights and moments of darkness. It is a promenade performance but some seating will be available.

13. FIRST ACTS – Spoken word on film

5pm–6pm | Market Theatre

Free but ticketed

Rural Media present a screening and live performance of some bold, innovative micro-short spoken word films made by West Midlands-based Spoken Word Artists for the Channel 4 Random Acts strand. The artists include 1990sChris, Paul Stringer (Beatfreeks), Aliyah Hasinah, Sipho Dube, Dion Kitson and Tom Chimiak. The event and Q&A with artists will be hosted by Ben Norris (2013 UK All-Star Poetry Slam Champion).

14. Romanian Women Poets Hosted by Fiona Sampson, Ana Blandiana, Liliana Ursu and Magda Carneci with translator Viorica Patea

6pm–7.30pm | Burgage Hall | £9

This event is curated by our poet in residence Fiona Sampson. She says, ‘Poetry opens a door on the world. Right now, Romania’s women poets are among the best writing anywhere. I love their work, which is extravagant, surreal, sexy and often socio-political too. They encourage us to take risks, and to feel beholden to nobody.’

Ana Blandiana is a legendary figure in Romanian literature. She has recently been awarded the European Poet of Freedom Prize (2016) among her many honours. Ana Blandiana will read from My Native Land A4 and her new collection The Sun of Hereafter & Ebb of the Senses. Liliana Ursu is an internationally acclaimed poet, prose writer, and translator. Magda Carneci is a poet, essayist and art historian who has published numerous books of poetry.

15. Fair Field: The Ploughing of the Half-Acre

8pm–9pm | Barrett Browning Institute
£6 (£20 for all four Fair Field events)

Will’s quest to find Truth has stalled, until a chance meeting with Piers the Plowman puts him on the right track. But can Piers recruit enough workers to plough his half-acre of land before Hunger strikes? Return to the soil in this dream-within-a-dream about labour, food and hunger. Breach Theatre combine a dramatic retelling from Piers Plowman with original film tracing the journey of modern food from field to fork.

This venue contains steps and narrow staircases. Flashing lights and moments of darkness. It is a promenade performance but some seating will be available.

16. An Evening of Poetry and Song with Grace Petrie and MacGillivray

8pm–10.30pm | Hellens Manor | £15

Grace Petrie is a folk singer, songwriter, and activist. Her unique takes on life, love and politics, and the warmth and wit with which they are delivered have won over audiences everywhere. She has performed and collaborated with Billy Bragg and Peggy Seeger. MacGillivray’s second collection is The Nine of Diamonds. She reads and sings not just poems but also old Gaelic songs. Her presentation is other-worldly and electrifying, drawing on ancient traditions but ultramodern.

18. Fair Field: The Tower of Truth

9.30pm–10.30pm | St Katherine's Hall

£6 (£20 for all four Fair Field events)

Destitute and seeking redemption, Will finds shelter in an empty hall. Will he ever find Truth or the answers he seeks? The outside world threatens to break in and he falls again into a dream, with the angry shouts of protestors combining with nightmarish visions of the underworld. Discover the Truth in this powerful crescendo of Will's journey, staged in a medieval hall and modelled on the ancient Christian tradition of the Easter Vigil.

19. All The Journeys I Never Took

Pre-book a 30 minute performance time between 12 noon and 8pm | £8

All The Journeys I Never Took with Rebecca Tantony

Tantony is a personal account of what it's like to discover our place in the world; a place which echoes with unravelling journeys, first dates, travel, break-ups, family and confidences. At turns both confessional and an exploration of current affairs, this show explores what a contemporary definition of home might be. Become the observer. Sit back. Absorb and enjoy the journey!

This unique performance is 30 minutes long for one or two audience members at a time and a mystery Ledbury location!

Suitable for audiences 16+

Hedgespoken presents

22. A.E. Stallings Workshop

– Forms of Repetition

'Repetition is a Form of Change' —
Brian Eno, Oblique Strategies

11am–1pm | Old Cottage Hospital | £20

In this workshop, participants will look at the contemporary triplet, a 8-line form pivoted on two rhymes and repeated lines that somehow covers more ground than its wheel-spinning cousin, the villanelle—a little hand-grenade of a form packing a lot of power into a tiny space. The focus is on rhyme as unreason, and repetition as movement.

24. Tony Hoagland Workshop

– Shifting the Frame

2pm–4pm | Old Cottage Hospital | £20

In our era, one default assumption of much poetry is that the poem's proper subject is the self of the speaker. The result of this assumption is a claustrophobia in many poems, an enclosed world-view preoccupied with first person pronoun. This workshop will be about consciously shifting the frame of the poem from the private ego into the wider world; getting more playful, and more knowledgeable, more elliptical and polyphonic in the making of your poems. To incorporate the manifold world into a poem is not to leave the self behind, but enlarges and deepens everything: structure, tone, soulfulness, veracity, and ambition.

25. Death Salon with Thomas Lynch

2.30pm–4pm | Handley Organics Cafe
Upstairs | £5 | Coffee and delicious cakes
available to purchase

Thomas Lynch chronicles small-town life and death through the eyes of a poet who is also an undertaker. He will chat about his writing and work on last things and funerals and enable an open conversation on subjects ranging from couplets to corpses that will be lively and invigorating.

27. Choman Hardi, James Sheard and André Naffis-Sahely

2.30pm–3.45pm | Burgage Hall | £9

Choman Hardi was born in Sulaimani, Kurdistan, and lived in Iraq and Iran before seeking asylum in the UK in 1993. Her collection Considering the Women explores the equivocal relationship between immigrants and their homeland and the plight of women in an aggressive patriarchal society and as survivors of political violence. The poems in James Sheard's remarkable third book, The Abandoned Settlements, are about love and leaving, of how the rift of departure brings on a kind of haunting, of loss, ghost towns, war-zones, deserted villages or resorts. André Naffis-Sahely was born in Venice in 1985 to an Iranian father and an Italian mother, but raised in Abu Dhabi. The Promised Land: Poems From Itinerant Life is forthcoming in August and his depictions of dispossessed labourers in the United Arab Emirates and of ruined, decaying communities in what is now Trump's America resonate powerfully.

32. Poets' Ways of Life with Christopher Merrill, Maria Galina and Patrick Dubost.

Hosted by Fiona Sampson

7.15pm–9.15pm | Burgage Hall | £9

Curated by poet in residence Fiona Sampson who says, 'To work internationally is to understand that poets' working lives differ according to their home culture. Here are three fine poets, all with international reputations of their own, who are also key culture-makers in their own national culture: the Russian-Ukrainian editor, critic and writer; the North American director of an exemplary and pioneering university writers' workshop; and the French musician-experimental performer.'

French poet Patrick Dubost's work, both visual and oral, often experimental, leads him to encounters with sound poetry, music, theatre. He also works under his alter ego Armand Le Poête. Maria Galina was born in one of the oldest Russian towns – Tver, but spent her childhood and youth in Ukraine. As a poet she has one of the most prestigious Russian poetry awards and works in the oldest Russian Literary magazine Novyi Mir. Christopher Merrill has published six collections of poetry and books of non-fiction, among them, Only the Nails Remain: Scenes from the Balkan Wars. As director of the International Writing Program at the University of Iowa, Merrill has conducted cultural diplomacy missions to more than fifty countries.

MONDAY 3 JULY

36. Tony Hoagland

- The American Poetic Voice

3.45pm–4.45pm | Burgage Hall | £9

What is most distinctive about the American contemporary poetic voice? It may be its democratic vernacular, its elasticity, its plainness of style, its life-giving vulgarity, its pragmatism, its materialism, its self-regard, or its humour. All of these features are embedded in that mysterious element we call Voice, that rhythmic undulating metabolism which transports and delivers whatever ‘information’ a poem contains. This talk will use examples to analyze, admire and illustrate some of the specific secrets of the American voice, and will provide a means for considering the craft of any poetic voice.

37. Journeys With Seamus

5.30pm–6.30pm | Burgage Hall | £9

The novelist Andrew O'Hagan travelled with Seamus Heaney, and their friend the great editor Karl Miller, to Scotland, Ireland and Wales, and in this talk he describes those journeys traversing over language and language, in the footsteps of great poets. O'Hagan uses letters and journals to reconstruct the story, and begins, at the same time, to tell a personal tale of growing up with Heaney's writing and finding a great love of poetry.

Forget Me Not – The Alzheimer's Whodunnit

38. Forget Me Not

- The Alzheimer's Whodunnit

7pm–8pm | The Market Theatre | £9

Comic, poet and ex-psychiatric nurse Rob Gee presents a murder mystery set on an Alzheimer's ward. Jim's wife, a patient on a dementia ward, has died from what appears to be natural causes. Jim is a retired police detective and he smells a rat. He's determined to solve this one last murder. The problem is he also has dementia. Narrated partly by Jim, partly by a happy-go-lucky nurse and partly by the baffling Detective Inspector Rae.

39. Excavations of Eternity...
A tribute in words and music to Nick Alexander

8.30pm–10.30pm | Burgrave Hall | £6
(to include a drink or two!)

Brilliant, eccentric, witty... so Nick has been described. This evening will extend those qualities to the surprising, the absurd and the wondrous, as his friends play and sing and recite beyond the limits of the normal. Many of Nick's own songs and poems will be included. The line-up will present stars of Ledbury night-life and low-life, including Sara-Jane Arbury, Jim Dening, Angie Hughes, Jess Mercer, Mark Stevenson, Nick Trigg, Echo Road – and, of course, Nick's own band pOxymoron, who will squat hideously on the second half of the programme, performing classic numbers such as Ghost Train, 100 in the Shade, and the Poxy Manifesto. Finally, a finale, everyone welcome to join in.

Nick's books, the pOxymoron CD and prints from 'Excavations of Eternity,' (his collection of poems illustrated by Jeanette McCulloch) will be on sale at modest prices. All proceeds to St Michael's Hospice.

41. Traitor or Translator? Why we must not untangle Pablo Neruda's life from his work, nor the music from the poetry

A seminar by Adam Feinstein

10am–11.30am | Burgage Hall | £9

As Neruda's acclaimed biographer, Adam Feinstein, will demonstrate in this seminar, the extraordinary life of the Nobel Prize-winning Chilean poet was so intimately interwoven with his work that it is impossible to untangle them. Feinstein will illustrate with telling examples, including some of his own new English translations of Neruda's celebrated poems.

Dreamcatcher: Schools Showcase

10.30am–11.30am | Community Hall | Free

Pupils from Ledbury and Eastnor Primary Schools will perform the poems they have made into songs as part of a partnership project with Three Choirs Festival in Worcester, inspired by Edward Elgar's The Dream of Gerontius. #### 44. An Edward Thomas Miscellany

6pm–7pm | Ledbury Books and Maps | £9

This talk marks the launch of an anthology of Thomas's lesser-known prose and poetry for those who, like Thomas, have an interest in the 'outdoors' – such as walking, topography and wildlife. The writing contained in this selection, which includes essays, stories and travel writing, shows Thomas's enduring pursuit of joy found in nature. The talk will feature readings of extracts from the anthology, and an introduction by the anthology's editor, Dr Anna Stenning.

45. Roy McFarlane and Deborah Alma

6.30pm–7.30pm | Burgage Hall | £9

Roy McFarlane reads from his first collection Beginning With Your Last Breath which opens with a deeply moving account of the discovery of an adoption and moves through lost love and friendships, the politics of place, race and culture and the power of music. Deborah Alma shares poems from True Tales of the Countryside about sex, love and ageing in rural Shropshire and Wales and her experiences as a mixed-race, Anglo-Indian woman.

46. An Evening with An Immigrant

8pm–9.30pm | Market Theatre | £9

Littered with poems, stories and anecdotes, award-winning poet and playwright Inua Ellams will tell his ridiculous, fantastic, poignant immigrant-story. Tales of escaping fundamentalist Islam in Nigeria, performing solo shows at the National Theatre, and drinking wine with the Queen of England, all the while without a country to belong to or a place to call home.

Inua Ellams: An Evening with An Immigrant

47. Workshop with Inua Ellams – Writing In Response

11am–1pm | Old Cottage Hospital | £20

In this workshop, participants will discuss, dissect and explore various ways into writing counter or companion poems. Participants should come with favourite poems, a clear sense of their preoccupations in poetry, and be ready to play, experiment and write.

48. The Canterbury Tales

12 noon–2pm | The Talbot Hotel

£9 per event | £16 when booking

Days 1 and 2 together

(lunch optional, pre-order on arrival)

Enjoy poetic intercourse between lunch courses as Sara-Jane Arbury, John Burns and Martyn Moxley continue to bring pilgrims from The Canterbury Tales to vocal life with their vigorous reading of selected stories from Chaucer's classic work.

49. Close Reading Session Dappled and Discordant: On poetry and our 'off-beat' relationship with nature 2pm–4pm | Burgage Hall | £9

John Parham will highlight English poetry's long engagement with 'green' issues and what this might mean for how we understand nature at a time of climate crisis. Comparing two writers, the Victorian 'priest-poet' Gerard Manley Hopkins and the contemporary poet, Alice Oswald, that question will be considered alongside a broader discussion of how poetry has traditionally confronted an English landscape peppered with agricultural and industrial activity. The talk will offer an opportunity for participants to read from the poems and to discuss and raise questions. Dr John Parham is Associate Head for Research in the Institute of Humanities & Creative Arts at the University of Worcester.

50. Angela France: The Hill 5.15pm–6.15pm | Burgage Hall | £9

Angela France uses audio and visual material from the county archives in her presentation of her fourth collection The Hill, a multi-layered exploration of Leckhampton Hill, near Cheltenham, where she has walked for fifty years. The poems blend her own experience of the hill with a rich human and natural history reaching back to the Iron Age. In 1902, working men rioted to preserve rights of way on the hill, raising questions about land ownership.

57. The Cause: The Struggle Goes On

7pm–8pm | The Burbage Hall | £9

'The Cause' was the Victorian name for what we now call feminism and was adopted by women's movements as they fought for the vote. Tonight, Jan Long takes you on an immersive journey exploring the political and passionate turmoil of the struggle for female emancipation, illuminated by the emotionally charged poetry of those who were involved, read by Sara-Jane Arbury. As the story unfolds we pose the provocative question, 'how would those pioneers view the position of women today?' The answers may give us all pause to think.

65. Denise Riley and Vahni Capildeo

5.30pm–6.30pm | Burgage Hall | £9

Say Something Back, described by The Guardian as ‘heartfelt and deeply necessary’, will allow readers to see just why the name of Denise Riley has been held in such high regard by her fellow poets for so long. It includes a profoundly moving poem of grieving and loss, and poems contemplating the natural world and physical law.

Vahni Capildeo’s Measure of Expatriation won the Forward Prize for Poetry and is, according to Malika Booker ‘poetry that transforms. When people in the future seek to know what it’s like to live between places, traditions, habits and cultures, they will read this.’ This event is hosted by Ursula Owen.

66. Simon Armitage

7pm–8pm | Community Hall | £9

Following his celebrated adventures in drama, translation, travel writing and prose poetry, Simon Armitage’s eleventh collection of poems, The Unaccompanied, heralds a return to his trademark contemporary lyricism. The poems are set against a backdrop of economic recession and social division, where mass media, the mass market and globalisation have made alienation a commonplace experience and where the solitary imagination drifts and conjures. Insightful, relevant and empathetic, these poems are a bold new statement of intent by one of our most respected living poets.

7.15pm–8.15pm | Burgage Hall | £9

We celebrate the solidarity artists create across borders and amidst conflict. Palestinian poet

Basem el-Nabres has been writing since 1976 and has published eight books of poetry. The last was about the war in Gaza. Israeli poet Tal Nitzán has published six collections and is the editor of the anthology With an Iron Pen: Hebrew Protest Poetry 1984 – 2004.

68. Beyond The Water’s Edge

– poetry from our world

8.45pm–10.15pm | Market Theatre | £9

Hear voices from around the world, distilled into poetry in this unique performance. Midland Creative Projects take the words of the world’s poets and present them on stage with live music to create a celebration of our lives in all their forms. The drama of love, loss and re-birth mingles with the comedy of daily life, resulting in a captivating series of portraits presented through the words of some of the world’s best poets.

SATURDAY 8 JULY

69. Workshop with Vahni Capildeo Tongueless Whispering/Double Codes 10am–12 noon | Old Cottage Hospital | £20

This workshop builds on Vahni Capildeo's continuing engagement with the late Guyanese revolutionary and enigmatic poet Martin Carter. Some of Martin Carter's work will be read closely as examples. The standard edition is University of Hunger: Collected Poems & Selected Prose. How to integrate non-human, historical, silent, or musical elements as 'voice' into poems: At the level of story and substance, this might mean the actual imagined or remembered voices of a place or its inhabitants. At the level of language, techniques of 'double coding' to overlay voices will be explored. Participants will be encouraged to bring physical objects and non-poetic (including non-English-language) text that they might like to use as inspiration.

20 minutes with... Tiziano Fratus 10.30am–10.50am | Panelled Room, The Master's House | Free

Tiziano Fratus lives in a little village at the foot of the Italian Alps. He has coined the concepts of Homo Radix (Rootman) and Alberografia (Treegraphy). His latest collection is Ogni albero è un poeta (Every Tree is a Poet).

Supported by Herefordshire Libraries

70. Poetry and Mental Health with Melissa Lee-Houghton 10.30am–11.30am | Baptist Hall | £5

Next Generation Poet Melissa Lee-Houghton has been affected by mental health issues. The themes this event will explore include trauma/anguish, mental health and the therapeutic benefits of writing poetry, in conversation with Chloe Garner.

71. 'I am black, I am black': Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Hope End and anti-slavery poetry 11am–12noon | Burgrave Hall | £9

In 1847 The Liberty Bell, a Boston Anti-slavery annual, published Elizabeth Barrett Browning's The Runaway Slave at Pilgrim's Point, one of the most powerful, shocking poems in the long and distinguished tradition of anti-slavery verse. Elizabeth Barrett Browning came from a major slaveholding family—the large Barrett holdings in Jamaica paid for 'Hope End'. Cora Kaplan's talk explores the complex political and poetic legacies of British slave-ownership through this astonishing poem by one of the nineteenth century's greatest poets.

Outdoor Magic in the Walled Garden 11am–4pm | The Walled Garden | Free

Wondrous events and activities for families including Flit, Flap and Fly: A Squawking Adventure!, Quirky Folk, Minstrels of Magic, The Nursery Rhyme Trail and Sally Crabtree Creativity Conjuror.

72. Air Poems in the Key of Voice
A work of translation by Kyra Pollitt
featuring the British Sign Language poetry of Paul Scott and the vocal gestures of Victoria Punch, with supporting film-poetry by Helen Dewberry and Chaucer Cameron.

12 noon–1pm | Market Theatre | £9

For Britain's native sign language community, poetry is a linguistic, visual, kinesthetic and visceral experience. Form in sign language poetry is created through play with language, space, image and movement.

For this work performed live, Kyra Pollitt analyzed the image-rhyming in Paul Scott's poems to create a basic score onto which Victoria Punch mapped a series of vocal gestures inspired by the Estill method.

For those who don't sign, access to the content of the poems is offered through film-poetry by Helen Dewberry and Chaucer Cameron simultaneously superimposed onto Paul and Victoria's live performance.

The piece will offer hearing audiences something of the rich, immersive, spine-tingling experience conjured by sign language poetry.

73. Luke Kennard and Melissa Lee-Houghton

1.45pm–2.45pm | Burgrave Hall | £9

'I was dazzled by Luke Kennard's Cain – its central sequence of 31 prose-poems, each an anagram of the same few verses of Genesis, is the cleverest and funniest thing I've read this year.' (Alan Hollinghurst) Luke Kennard has published five collections of poetry and The Transition, his debut novel. Melissa Lee-Houghton's much lauded third collection Sunshine 'is a beautiful, brutal book... but also wry, funny and self-aware.' (Helen Mort) She is working on two forthcoming poetry collections, one of which will be published by Penned in the Margins in 2018, titled Erotomania.

74. Epic Youth/Two Kids Lost

3pm–5pm with interval

Market Theatre | Free But Ticketed

The culmination of the Festival's outreach project with young people from Close House and Shypp housing project in Hereford. In the first half, Jonny Fluffypunk will compère performances of the young people's poetry, accompanied with film.

The second half is a showing of Two Kids Lost, a short action film recently nominated for the prestigious Into Film Awards in March 2017. The film is a modern day re-telling of the Hansel and Gretel fairytale where two sisters find their home life with their dad and stepmother intolerable.

Young people were involved in all stages of the film from coming up with the concept, writing the script, location scouting, acting, shooting and directing with mediaSHYPP. For this showing they have specially created live poetry and music to perform alongside. The film features poetry created with spoken word impresario Joelle Taylor in sessions provided by Ledbury Poetry Festival, and is jam-packed with visual and emotional impact enhanced by live performances.

75. Stairs & Whispers: D/deaf and Disabled Poets Write Back 3.30pm–5pm | Community Hall | £9

Stairs & Whispers is a major UK anthology of poetry and essays from D/deaf and disabled writers, published by Nine Arches Press. Join writers, disability activists and co-editors of this groundbreaking anthology – Sandra Alland, Khairani Barokka and Daniel Sluman – for an afternoon of readings, performances, films, and discussion around disability poetics, D/deaf culture, and poetry as text, performance, recording and translation. At this accessible venue in a BSL-interpreted set, the Stairs and Whispers editors will present poems from the book. They will be joined by several other writers and performers from the anthology, live or via captioned film-poems in BSL and English. Poets include Rachael Boast, Markie Burnhope, Andra Simons, Gary Austin Quinn, Nuala Watt, Bea Webster and Donna Williams.

In a political climate that constantly threatens to marginalise disabled and D/deaf people, Ledbury Poetry Festival hosts this afternoon of poetry and discussion that explores, empowers and represents the realities of disabled and D/deaf poets in their own words.

Sandra Alland's work includes Blissful Times and Naturally Speaking and Khairani Barokka's works include Indigenous Species and Rope. Daniel Sluman has two books: Absence has a weight of its own and The Terrible.

20 minutes with... Veronika Dintinjana 3.40pm–4pm | Panelled Room, The Master's House | Free

Malika's Poetry Kitchen

77. Kayo Chingonyi and Miriam Nash

6pm–7pm | Burge Hall | £9

Voices of the Isle of Erraid echo through Miriam Nash's first collection, All the Prayers in the House. The poems take the form of songs, letters, fragments, formal verse – many kinds of prayer perhaps, for many kinds of storm. The poems of Kayo Chingonyi's Kumukanda range between worlds, ancestral and contemporary; between the living and the dead; between the gulf of who he is and how he is perceived. 'A brilliant debut – a tender, nostalgic and, at times, darkly hilarious exploration of black boyhood, masculinity and grief.' (Warsan Shire)

78. Joy with Sasha Dugdale and Linda Bassett inspired by the life of the poet William Blake

7.45pm–8.45pm | Burge Hall | £9

Joy is a long poem by Sasha Dugdale in the voice of Catherine, the widow of the poet William Blake. Sasha Dugdale will introduce and talk about the research and writing of the poem, which won the Forward Prize for Best Single Poem in 2017. Actress Linda Bassett, who is well known for her role in Call the Midwife, will read this beautiful and tender poem in what is bound to be a unique and special event.

THE GREAT LEDBURY CELEBRATION ON LEDBURY HIGH STREET!

A celebration of 21 years of Ledbury Poetry Festival and the 400th anniversary of the town's iconic Market House.

Poetry, music and entertainment | 11am–6pm
Food market | 12pm–4pm

Immerse yourself in this really special day when Ledbury pulls out all the stops to create a magnificent celebration. The Poetry Festival, Ledbury Food Group, and Ledbury Town Council bring you the best of local food and drink accompanied with the most exciting poetry, music and entertainment collected on Ledbury's High Street for many a year. Be thrilled and enthralled by the Baltic inspired melodies of Flatworld, the 70s drenched tones of Sequins, and the hip swaying Samba Galez, "the beat hit me to my primal core". Poetry Slam champions Brenda Read-Brown and Nick Lovell will serve up brilliant cut and thrust performance poetry. Look out for contemporary pop up Dancefest performances. Dancefest's community companies of all ages have created new dances inspired by poetry and will be dancing on the High Street and in outdoor spaces around the town. Clapperbox puppet theatre will entertain all day, and Ledbury Fringe buskers will fill the nooks and crannies. The Town Council has arranged heritage exhibitions and art displays, birthday cake and a Bake Off! It will be an unmissable day, made even more special by the appearance of local beatboxing legend, Dave Crowe. Since wowing the judges of Britain's Got Talent in 2008 with his incredible vocal percussion, Dave has gone on to become an international beatboxing superstar, and returns to perform in front of his home crowd.

Contemporary Poetry in Collaboration

6.15–7.15pm | Market Theatre | £9

The Enemies project, led by S.J. Fowler, has created over 200 events, in 18 countries, with over 500 poets. Enemies: Ledbury will première collaborations written by poets both attending and participating in the Festival. Expect original, dynamic new poetry, evidencing the open, inventive power of collaborative poetry in the 21st century. The poet comes up against something other than themselves in the writing of every poem, and in the shaping of every fragment of language there is a response taking place. When the other in question is the equally avid mind of another poet then expect the extraordinary!
